YALE WINS ANNUAL GLEE CLUB CONTEST IN CARNEGIE HALL

Scores 288 Points Out of Possible 300

MIDDLEBURY ENTERS FOR FIRST TIME

Thirteen College Glee Clubs Participate

A large and enthusiastic audience listened to the third annual intercollegiate contest in Carnegie Hall, New York City, Saturday evening, in which the Yale Glee Club took first place with 288 points out of a possible 300. Middlebury took part in this contest for the first time and according to the estimate of many who heard acquitted herself with honor. The second place was divided between Syracuse and Columbia, each of whom scored 286 points. Among the 13 colleges that competed were Harvard and Dartmouth, each of whom has won first place in former contests.

The judges were Walter Damrosch, well known conductor, chairman; Mme. Louise Homer, opera star; and Gilbert Gabriel, musical critic of the New York Sun and Globe. The program for each contestant consisted of three numbers; first, a light optional song, second, a compulsory prize song, Henschel's Morning Hymn; and third, a college song.

Middlebury sang for her optional song Rachmaninoff's "Glorious For-

President Addresses Alliance Francaise

Is Decorated With Ribbon of Legion of Honor By Professor Hardre

President Moody addressed the third meeting of the Alliance Francaise of Middlebury College which was held in Old Chapel Wednesday evening. He pointed out the importance of the organization in spreading and developing a genuine interest in and sympathy for all things French and he assured the group of his encouragement and hearty support. In closing he mentioned the plans for a new French House, which he said, is now under way.

It was voted that the president of the club should appoint a committee consisting of one member each of the French faculty and the faculty outside of the French Department eligible to membership in the Alliance, and two students, to draw up a constitution.

The few points of business having been cleared up, Professor Rene Hardre then read to the club a translation in English of a letter received from the President of the French Republic announcing the conferring of the Cross of Chevalier of the Legion of Honor upon President Moody. According to custom, Professor Hardre removed from his coat the tiny red ribbon of the Legion and pinned it upon President Moody as a sign of his new honor until the cross and diploma should arrive from the French Ambassador at Washington.

All students who are taking French or who are interested in French are invited to membership in the Alliance, as well as all members of the faculty who are interested in French. The officers of the club desire that it be an open society, and that its membership be as large as possible.

Stone Hollquist Elected Captain of Basketball

Stone C. Hollquist, '25, of Milwaukee, Wis., was elected Captain of Basketball at a meeting of the squad after chapel yesterday morning.

Hollquist has been very prominent in athletics since entering college, having played Varsity football and basketball two seasons as well as being mainstay of the track team in the hurdle and sprint events for three years. He is also prominent in winter sports and was one of the five men who represented Middlebury in the recent meet at McGill. He is a member of Alpha Sigma Phi fraternity, the Sages, and plays in Hunter's orchestra.

BLUE SMOTHERED IN FINAL CONTEST

Lose to Vermont Quintet 52-11 at Burlington Wednesday

Although putting up a desperate and courageous fight against the University of Vermont the Middlebury quintet was overwhelmed 52 to 11 in their final game of the season at Burlington Wednesday night. The score was a decided surprise as only a week before the Green and Gold had considerable difficulty in defeating the Blue and White team in the last two minutes of play.

Vermont started off strong with baskets by Isham and Yarnall followed by a foul by Semansky. Middlebury was then able to break through the Vermont defense and score, but Vermont continued to roll up her points so that at the end of the half she had scored 23 points. Just before the close of the first frame Middlebury scored two more points on fouls.

In the second period Vermont broke loose to an even greater extent than in the first period and scored almost at will. Several desperate rallies by the Middlebury team were of no avail except as a temporary halt to the offense of the Green and Gold.

Rich was almost the whole team for Middlebury as he broke away from Capt. Cayward of the Vermont team and dropped in the only two floor baskets of the game. In addition he contributed 4 fouls to the score. R. Rice and Knowles each contributed to the Blue and White score with 2 and 1 point respectively.

FROSH WIN AND LOSE AS SEASON CLOSES

Defeat Claremonters 30-27 Drops Springfield Game 39-33

Middlebury Freshmen ran their number of wins to ten when they defeated Stevens High School of Claremont, N. H., 30-27 in a close game Saturday. The game was decided in an overtime period the second half ending 25-27. The game was rough thruout with three Frosh being put out for personals.

The game started with the Freshmen taking the lead. Due to the smallness of the court the home team seemed able to drop them in from any place. However Patch and Roberts kept the score fairly even. As the game drew to a close the score became tied and the period ended 27-27.

In the overtime period Middlebury was forced to play with three men. This however failed to stop the Frosh for Patch soon dropped in a basket. Roberts followed this with a foul which gave them a 3-point lead. The Freshmen fighting hard held the lead, kept Stevens from scoring, and the game ended with Middlebury on the long end.

For the Frosh, Patch, Roberts and Eddy were the mainstays on the offense. For Stevens, Kannell proved high scorer of the game with five baskets and three fouls. Gibson as the other forward was a close second. The score at the end of the first half was 18-17 in favor of Stevens.

Lose to Springfield

The first year men lost their final game of the season to Springfield High to the tune of 39-33 Friday. The game was one of the hardest games of the season. The Freshmen have previously beaten Springfield on the home court 25-11. Springfield coached by Barney Protratz '22 was in to take the biggest game of the season and they well deserved to win. As in the game the previous night at Stevens, the Frosh finished the game with four men. This ends the frosh season with a record of ten wins and two defeats and with the state Frosh title.

In the first half Middlebury seemed unable to get going. Early in the half Springfield took the lead and held it thruout. The home team drew a large lead in this half, practically doubling the Blue's score. In the second half the Frosh began to play. Wilhelm, star forward, who was tallying at ease, was shut out without a basket. Roberts and Eddy soon began to find their eye and the freshmen gradually drew up on even terms However, repeated fouling spelled defeat as the team was compelled to play with four men a greater part of the half. Springfield made the fouls count. The team played desperately to end the season with a win but the odds were too great and Springfield came out on the long end.

Doran Gives Enthusiastic View of Publishing

"The publishing of books," said Mr. George H. Doran, of George H. Doran Company, Publishers, in his lecture last night on "Publishing," "is neither a commercial nor a professional proposition, but a combination of both. To be a good publisher, one must have a fair knowledge of current literature, a general and catholic interest in all literature, and know the trend of present-day thought. There is plenty of room at the bottom and more room at the top for the young men and women who are in earnest."

In regard to the purpose of book-publishing, Mr. Doran said: "It is the means for the diffusion of knowledge, for the promotion of new ideas. It is intensely interesting and exciting, and lacks the depression and routine which generally accompany business. The real thrill comes, however, with the great running of a new book by a new writer. Success in publishing lies, not so much on what to produce, as upon how to produce. College training, although it is not necessary, is a valuable asset, and will get a man farther in the big game."

Manager of Tennis, F. Beacom Rich, '25, announces an 8-match schedule for the tennis team this spring. The schedule is the result of careful arrangement and its late start insures fair weather and good playing conditions with plenty of opportunity for practice between matches.

The schedule as approved by the Athletic Council is as follows:

May 3—St. Michaels at Winooski.

May 10—U. of Vermont at Middlebury.

May 16—St. Michaels at Middlebury.

May 21—Springfield College at Springfield.

May 22—Wesleyan at Middletown, Conn.

May 24—St. Lawrence at Middlebury.

May 29—U. of Vermont at Burlington.

May 31—Springfield College at Middlebury.

TRACK PROGRAM WILL CONTAIN SIX IMPORTANT MEETS

To Begin With Amherst at Amherst May 3

ANNOUNCED BY ANDERSON TODAY

State Champs Meet To Be Here May 17

Manager of Track, Malcolm Anderson announced the 1924 Track schedule this morning. The Blue and White will participate in six meets this spring as follows:

May 3—Amherst at Amherst.

May 10—Worcester Tech at Worcester.

May 13—Connecticut Agricultural College at Storrs.

May 17—State Championship Meet at Middlebury.

May 24—Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute at Troy.

May 31—Hamilton College at Clinton, N. Y.

Coach Arthur M. Brown, appeared pleased with the track situation judging from a recent interview. Said he, "We have the largest squad for many years, over 50 men and new recruits coming in daily. We will have three men at least for each event. I believe very decidedly in a long training period to get men into condition. We have practiced three times a week at the Gym since midyears and beginning with the first of March the distance men will take short trips out of doors on alternate days. As soon as weather conditions permit, daily training will begin at Porter Field and this will continue during Easter vacation. We have made arrangements to run a training table at the Delta Upsilon house during vacation. Board is a dollar a day. Many men are planning to avail themselves of this opportunity as try-outs for the Amherst meet come the week of the opening of school after Easter. We lost but three men by graduation last year, Whitters, Wittenburg and Shebring, and I think that we will 'come thru' with the goods."

Captain Cook recently underwent a successful operation on his tonsils and is expected to be back on the circular path stronger than ever this spring.

Activities Committee Discusses Problems

The faculty on extra-curricular activities met Monday afternoon with a few student representatives of activities and discussed the advisability of compelling a certain participation in activities and ways and means of recognizing outstanding work in this field. For the latter purpose an honor society of upperclassmen was talked over and met with considerable favor. It was also suggested that commencement honors in activities be awarded.

A point system which has been drawn up by the Committee was discussed. It met with considerable opposition on account of its complexity. There was also some opposition to making a minimum of activity points requisite to graduation. No definite action was taken on this point, it being thought advisable to wait until a complete record of each student's participation in activities is secured at the Deans' offices under the new system announced by Dean Wiley Monday evening.,

How To Spread Activities

At a meeting of the faculty committee on extra-curriculum activities, in conjunction with a few student representatives Monday afternoon, some very fundamental questions regarding student activities were discussed. How to get all students to take part in some activities, how to keep some students from taking part in all activities, and how to reward those whose work in activities seems to merit some especial reward, were some of these questions.

One object of the committee is to encourage every student to participate to some extent in undergraduate activities. Such activities, if not over-indulged in, are a pleasant and profitable part of a college education. At the present time a few people foolishly shoulder practically the whole burden of non-athletic activities, and those who enter into athletics are all too few in number. In order that all might receive the benefit of a moderate amount of extra-curricular work, the committee would like to see this work more evenly distributed.

Activities must be largely voluntary, since much of the good that one gets from them is a result of spontaneous effort eagerly applied to one's choice of interests. To require such effort is to make it mechanical and meaningless. Compulsion, if applied at all, should only be as a last resort, and should not impose a high requirement. Other means of "spreading" activities should first be given a trial. In the first place, greater facilities should be provided for both men and women to enter into recreational sports, "non-grandstand" athletics, so to speak. Men's interests are as diversified in sports as in studies. More skating rinks, a toboggan slide, a swimming pool, more hand ball courts, an indoor training track, are suggestions, perhaps unattainable for some time but none the less desirable. Which is more desirable: to build a toboggan slide where many could have fun and recreation all the winter season, or to train five men and send them in the McGill Carnival to win supposed glory for themselves and for Middlebury? If the money which is now spent in sending teams to compete with other colleges were used in providing facilities for sports at home, the problem of spreading the benefits of activities would be at least partly solved.

Another suggestion is that it be ascertained what students need encouragement to enter more actively into college life, and that upperclassmen, or faculty members, or both, be appointed to confer with these students in an attempt to find out what they like to do and can do, and to advise and encourage them to seize the opportunities that are before them. Personal contact is the substance of this suggestion. It is a good one, and one can only wonder that such contact, especially between students and faculty, should have to be appointed or systematized. In this suggestion, lies a force which has been little used but which contains great potentialities.

Freshman Basketball

The first regular freshman basketball season ever held on a definite schedule has just come to a close. This innovation in Middlebury sports has certainly proved itself successful. The team won ten out of their schedule of twelve games and scored about one hundred points more than their opponents. Furthermore the Freshman team won the championship of the State without losing even one game in the series.

Such a successful season means more than this, however. It means that Coach Drost has trained a group of freshmen to play basketball in such a manner that next year they will be able to lend to the Varsity, much needed material. A greater number of men have been encouraged to come out and men who would have refrained from trying to make a position on the Varsity team have demonstrated their ability, which otherwise might have lain dormant. Furthermore there has been created an opportunity for more men to participate in healthful sport which should be the ultimate constructive aim of college athletics in general.

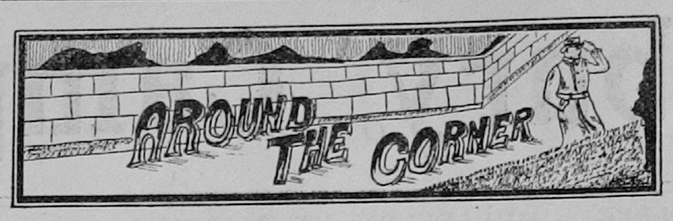
Crabbing The Rules

There seems to be a great deal of crabbing lately about the Student Government Association. Rules, officers, and upholders and even the spirit of the Association, all come in for much plain, destructive razzing.

Those who do this are arousing a rebellious feeling among the students who have previously been content with the rules under which they live, and are also weakening the efficiency of the organization to cope with problems which daily arise.

One must grant the necessity of some governing body in a community the size of the Women's College. Perhaps the rules of this body are a little behind the times—the girl of today is so much more self sufficient than her older sister. It is possible that the officers take their duties a little too seriously—that they think more about the letter than about the spirit of the law. Such faults, if true, would naturally provoke criticism from a girl of spirit.

Each girl is a part of the organization and she owes loyalty to it. Petty criticism and complaint will accomplish nothing. Much might be accomplished, however, by studying the faults of the organization and the ways in which they may be remedied.



While sitting in chapel the other day the Idler happened to pull out one of those cards upon which are typed the names of the occupants of the various pews. The one in that pew happened to have been cut out of a card that was used last year by the students for convenience in getting train accomodations and the part left read as follows: "I expect to leave Middlebury March ——." The person beside him chanced to remark: "Well, that's a fine thing to put in front of a freshman."

Some people study and make Phi Bete. Others study and flunk. The latter group is fully as large as the former, and the middle class, who neither study nor flunk nor make Phi Bete, is larger than both together. So, the Idler concludes, why study?

COLLINS TO OPEN ECOLE CHAMPLAIN

Junior French School Not Connected With Middlebury School

Dr. Edward D. Collins, who recently retired as Director of the Middlebury College Summer Session, has announced the organization of a Junior French School to be conducted as a summer camp for high school girls and younger children during July and August. This school will be known as Ecole Champlain and will be operated on the estate of the recently organized Macdonough Point Corporation, of which Dr. Collins is a Director and Vice President.

The Macdonough Point Corporation was organized by C. W. Brownell, of Burlington, E. D. Collins of Middlebury, and associates, for the purpose of acquiring and developing lake shore property, establishing and operating summer camps, schools, and health resorts, and holds approximately 150 acres of lake shore land in the Campeau and Hawkins farms in Ferrisburgh, south of Long Point, in the region picturesquely described in the stories of the late Rowland Robinson.

The Ecole Champlain is in no way competitive with the French School of the Middlebury College Summer Session, although in a sense an outgrowth of it, since it arose in response to a demand from teachers and parents for a summer camp that would do for high school students and younger children a work similar to that of the Middlebury French School, which is largely a graduate school.

The Ecole Champlain will be conducted next summer for girls only, and these will be organized in two separate groups; those of high school age, and younger children. Special attention will be given to diet and health and the acquisition of French. The organization of the camp life will apply the same principles that have been so successfully used in the operation of the French School at the College and in the Maison Francaise. The property of the Macdonough Point Corporation will undergo considerable development preparatory to its new use.

Dean Attends Vocational Guidance Conference

Growing Interest In This Work In Colleges He Says—Middlebury Is Among Four Featured in Book

Dean E. J. Wiley recently returned from the annual conference of The National Vocational Guidance Asociation held in Chicago, Feb. 21, 22 and 23.

The conference consisted of lectures by eminent vocational guidance authorities in which this subject in all its branches was thoroughly discussed. "It was evident, said Dean Wiley from the tone of the conference that there is a rapidly growing interest in vocational guidance and personell work in colleges and universities, whereas until recently it has been confined almost entirely to secondary schools.

During the conference the 23rd year book of the Society for the Scientific Study of Education was discussed. In this book the chapter dealing with "Illustrations of Vocational Guidance in Colleges and Universities," by Prof. Myers of the University of Michigan features Middlebury College as one of the four colleges most active in vocational work in the country, the other three being Leland Stanford, Dartmouth and Northwestern.

REV. H. L. BAILEY, '86 PREACHES SUNDAY

Bailey Family Has Had Many Representatives in Middlebury

Reverend Henry L. Bailey of the class of '86 preached the Vespers sermon Sunday afternoon. His sermon was based on the text "He came unto himself," "A Man has to dig down deep," he said, "before he comes to himself and finds his own soul. Seaweeds float on the surface but pearls lie deep, and it is the pearls of character that we seek.

The world is at once both deep and shallow. It offers mighty and yet petty problems. Man is the same. He struggles bravely and suffers many trials—he seems as high as heaven. The moment after he begins to chatter like a bird. We are all deep in spots and in others pitifully shallow.

"Because of a deepened waterway, many a small town has grown into a large city. In the same way our intellectual and spiritual life depends on the deepening of our channels. We can not appreciate without effort the great masters of literature. But most of all if we wish to receive God the All-Powerful into our hearts and souls, we must deepen our characters in order to receive Him. If this is our desire life will take on a new and richer meaning.

Rev. Mr. Bailey represents three generations of Middlebury graduates. His father was George H. Bailey, '64, and his grandfather, Jeremiah Bailey, '26. A brother is Charles C. Bailey, '98.

TO SECURE MORE COMPLETE RECORDS

Dean To Assemble On Card Complete Data On Each Student

Dean E. J. Wiley announced Monday morning the establishing of a new personell record system for the Men's college which is intended to greatly facilitate the work of obtaining individual records by the collection of all the data on one filing card which is at present scattered in various offices and organization records. A like system will soon be taken up in the Women's college.

Besides the usual data in regard to a students family connections, scholastic record, and religious affiliations, the new system will include the records of preparatory school extra—curricula activities together with that pursued in college, the results of psychological and physical examinations, the vocational objectives or interests of the student, a statement of part-time employment and occupation followed after graduations; the composite personal rating compiled from the reports of the student's instructors; fraternities and societies, the student's particular fads and hobbies, and a photograph.

This data will constitute a cumulative and permanent record which will follow the student throughout college and remain on file for reference after graduation.

BARSTOW SPEAKS ON SALESMANSHIP

Salesman's Work, Tho Hard, Is Interesting and Profitable, He Says

The sales business, although hard, is, nevertheless an honorably interesting, and decidedly profitable work," said Mr. Ralph Barstow, of New York, speaking upon "The Salesmanship of Business," in the Chemistry building Friday evening.

"All business", said Mr. Barstow, "consists of three branches, finance, production and sales. The sales branch of business has two main divisions, personal salesmanship, and salesmanagership.

"In personal salesmanship five branches of accurate knowledge must be thoroughly mastered, (1) a knowledge of the goods to be sold, (2) a knowledge of the market, (3) a knowledge of the prospect, (4) a knowledge of one's own personality, (5) a knowledge of the selling process. To be a success in this branch a man must have the Spartan attitude of 'come home with your shield or on it.' There is no legitimate excuse for failing to make a sale. Salaries in this field often the first are comparatively high, ranging from $25 to $250 a week with traveling expenses paid. Some special salesmen make as high as $15,000 a year but must pay all their own expenses.

"Salesmanagement involves eight responsible divisions of work. (1) The selecting of salesmen, (2) The training of salesmen, (3) Handling of compensation methods, (4) Territorial arrangement of salesmen, (5) The collection of dates from which to formulate standards, (6) The meeting of competition, (7) The changing of the lines of goods carried, (8) Knowledge of the field of advertising. Salesmanship involves executive work and while no one can be a good salesmanager unless he has been a salesman, his success in the first field does not assure him success in the second. The more varied a man's range of experience the better are his chances of success in this field. Salaries of salesmanagers range from $3600 to $15,000 a year with very few positions commanding the highest figures.

"A good salesman need never fear for a position said Mr. Barstow, for up to a certain age the demand always exceeds the supply."

The public Phi Beta Kappa initiation ceremonies took place in Chapel this morning.

He Reached the Top

THE Vice-President of a great life insurance company who began his career as an agent has this to say to seniors who are about to graduate from college:

"If you love work and desire to pursue an honorable, useful and lucrative mission in life this is the business for you to take up. Life insurance salesmanship offers a fine field for the energies of the splendid young men in our colleges.

"That this is true is demonstrated by those college men who have taken up life insurance for they have shown that the college man is fit for this kind of a job and that the job also is fit for the college man.

"The work of the life insurance salesman is distinguished by independence and opportunity for directing his own. It gives all possible opportunity for individual initiative and a chance to make an ample income at an age when most fellows are struggling on a wage pittance."

That is the story of one who began at the bottom and reached the top without the help of a college education. The advantages are with you who graduate from college. Before deciding your career make inquiries of the "Agency Department."

Moody Made Chevalier Of Legion of Honor

This, the highest distinction of the French Government, was awarded to President Moody in recognition of the service he rendered the French cause during the World War, when he served in France as Chaplain of the 103rd U. S. Infantry, 26th Division and as Senior Chaplain at General Pershing's headquarters. When the States entered the great war, President Moody volunteered and joined the 1st Vermont Infantry as regimental chaplain. He then obtained his transfer to the 103rd U. S. Infantry which was to sail for France in the fall of 1917. He was with the 103rd Infantry early in 1918 when the 26th Division was holding a sector north of Chemin-des-Dames and Soissons, in the Forest of Pinon. Then in the Woevre, in front of Apremont, where the offensive spirt of the Yankee division was highly praised by General Passaga, commanding the French troops in the region of Toul. Shortly after, Chaplain Moody was chosen by General Pershing to be G. H. Q. chaplain of the A. E. F. He remained in this capacity until 1919, meanwhile paying frequent visits to the American units engaged in fights at the front. He was also sent on various missions through France, where he had to settle many questions with the French military and civil authorities. When he left France the French government thought it fit to express its gratitude by awarding Major Moody the Academic Palms. The French government is now showing its further appreciation by awarding President Moody the highest French distinction.

ever", and for her college song, the "Alma Mater."

The Challenge Cup, which is offered by the University Club of New York, is now in the custody of Yale for one year. It will become the permanent property of the college which first wins three championships.

The following colleges were represented in the contest: Amherst, Columbia, Dartmouth, Grinnell, (winner of the western competition), Harvard, Middlebury, New York University, Penn State, University of Pennsylvania, Princeton, Syracuse (winner of the New York State contest), Wesleyan, and Yale.

At the close of the contest, the University Glee Club and the combined college Glee Clubs, in all over 500 voices, united in singin Kremser's "Prayer of Thanksgiving" and "Star Spangled Banner."

The Middlebury Club broadcasted from station WJZ in the afternoon of Saturday, and following the concert at Carnegie Hall, gave several numbers at the dinner of the Vermont Society at Hotel Pennsylvania.

The annual Servitors' Ball will be held in Hepburn Social Hall Saturday, beginning at 4:00 p. m.

Kaleid Photograpic Work Is Exceptional

The photographs and proofs, both individual and groups for the 1925 Kaleidoscope have been returned from White Studio in New York and are exceptional in every way. In addition to the usual pictures there will be a special display of action pictures of the football games last fall in the sports department. Most notable of the group are those taken in the Stadium during the Middlebury-Harvard game.

During the coming week the pictures of fraternity and sorority groups as well as the athletic and campus activities groups will be on sale. Alumni who are interested in getting copies of this year's publication should get in touch with R. L. DeGroff, Circulation Manager, at once as all copies must be signed for before the book is issued.

R. N. Baldwin Advocates Complete Student Control

"Liberal Clubs are beginning to make student thinking in our colleges respectable" said Mr. Robert N. Baldwin, Harvard graduate, and Director of the American Civil Liberties Union, in his address to the Intercollegiate Conference, the first session of which was held at Yale University Feb. 29.

Present tendencies all point to increased student control of both social and educational life, of faculty organization, even with labor unions, for their own independence, and of an effort to relegate trustees to their proper sphere—getting the cash.

"The future of real education," he concluded, "lies clearly with the students."
